In this design, we created a network of local interfaces that structure areas essential to the location of reference infrastructures on a metropolitan and on a national level (sports city, multimedia centre, casino, marina and commercial area).

We identified vast open areas intended for protection against flood risk, making use of their natural resources and giving them uses compatible with their function, ensuring environmental sustainability.

We launched refurbishment models in the areas of informal occupation, safeguarding the organisational nature of local customs.

As a reference project in environmental and social urban refurbishment, A1V2's approach made use of the pre-existing inactive infrastructures, refurbishing and upgrading them, to provide a better accessibility network to the territory.
